Laid Off Calgary Facebook Group Guidelines

 BIANCA SINCLAIR · WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 2016

Welcome everyone!

I would like to clarify the aims of the group. The main intention is for support!

The group is primarily intended for people who are laid off and job searching in Calgary. It's a place where people can process their lay-off experience, share their job-search journey with one another, learn specific stress management and mindfulness skills as well as opportunities for job search tips and networking.

This initiative - Laid Off Calgary was founded voluntarily by Bianca Sinclair. Laid Off Calgary continues to be supported by other volunteers now including our awesome volunteer page moderators, coaches, social workers, psychologists, recruiters and other for-profit and non-profit organizations - all with a big heart and the goal of sharing.

Members of the group may also meet weekly - or as often as they wish! rRegistration is required in advance for these free, professionally facilitated meetings, each week has a different theme. To register for a meeting visit eventbrite.com and search for "Laid Off Calgary". Add yourself to the waitlist in eventbrite if a meeting is full and we will contact you if a space opens up.

If you're feeling distressed and need to talk with someone right now here is the 24 hr Distress Centre number in Calgary at 403.266.HELP (403-266-4357). This is an incredible resource and you can call as often as you need. Just having someone to vent to is very helpful and they also have current information on available resources.

laidoffcalgary.ca also provides more info and resources (note: this site is currently under development, bear with us!)

Laid Off Calgary is a non profit self help group. It's a great group to share and learn a few things and get ideas on how to help.

This group is a closed/private facebook group. You may see posts from this group within your own newsfeed but your facebook friends (who aren't members of this group) will not be able to see yours or anyone else's posts in this facebook group.

We ask that members:

- Respect confidentiality and anonymity
- Post things only related to the group and group objectives
- Choose encouragement and compassion over judgement
- Respect others thoughts and ideas

In the Laid Off Calgary facebook page and support group there is :

- No judgement
- No soliciting
- No selling

[This applies to both the in-person meetings and the facebook group].

I welcome knowledge sharing of resources/workshops that would be relevant for the group - there will opportunity to put these on the whiteboard during group times and members are free to capture what's relevant for them, or you can contact me if you are unsure about whether to post or not. Please keep in mind this is an evolving resource in Calgary and this is provided free to you, and from my own initiative. If you have some feedback relevant to the administration of the group or hosted meetings/workshops, I would love to hear from you.

Thanks again for signing up for the group and respecting and supporting one other.

p.s. Bianca can also be reached by private email to laidoffcalgary@gmail.com

HOW TO SCHEDULE YOUR DAY WHEN YOU'RE UNEMPLOYED

Wake up, throw on your gym shorts and dust off your yoga mat.

Research from Belgium suggests that working out early in the morning — before you've eaten breakfast — doesn't just help you meet your fitness goals but could even give you more energy than those few extra minutes of shut-eye.

7:30 am

8:15 am

Hit the showers.

Use this cooling-off time to ponder the meaning of life and what you truly want to get out of it.

Eat a healthy breakfast and sip your coffee outside.

Research suggests eating within an hour of waking boosts your mood and mind, and exposure to natural light in the morning tells your body to stop producing melatonin, a hormone that makes you sleepy. Light is also a natural antidepressant.

8:30 am

9am–12pm

Search for and apply to long-term jobs.

Before you start, make sure your résumé is up to date. Write a custom cover letter for each job, being sure to include the job details, show your value, infuse some of your personality, use phrases from the job description, and include only relevant information.

Eat lunch.

Take an hour-long lunch break — you've earned it. If you want to watch a little TV while you break, go for it, though a walk in the park might be better for you. Keep your lunch light so that you can maintain your energy levels.

12–1pm

1–2pm

Search for and apply to short-term jobs.

If you're not earning an income and don't have rainy-day funds to fall back on, things can get tight quickly. Spend an hour each day applying for jobs that can hold you over while you look for something more sustainable.

Learn a new skill.

There are plenty of online resources for learning new or brushing up on skills that could help set you apart. Use platforms like Coursera for free online courses in fields that interest you or that could help you in your career and spend an hour each day on lessons and coursework.

2–3pm

3–4pm

Network.

Networking is an important step in finding a job. Use this time to email contacts you might have in the industry, set up and attend coffee meetings, and follow up with contacts.

Volunteer.

Volunteering isn't just a great way to boost your spirits; it can help you network, gain experience, and add something special to your résumé.

4–6pm

6:00 pm

Socialize and relax.

After a day's hard work, keeping in touch with family and friends is important for maintaining your sanity, and these close contacts might also prove useful in your job search.
